CHAPTER 17 : LETTER WRITING

LEARNING WORKSHEET

- To,

The principal

ABC School

15 December _

Madam,

I am writing to bring to your attention a matter that has been a concern for many students in our class. We have observed that the lightning in our classroom is not sufficient, and the air circulation is poor. This has been affecting our ability to concentrate and maintain our focus during lessons. We are looking forward to a positive change.

Thanking you,

Yours obediently,

XYZ

CHAPTER 18 : STORY WRITING

- A. Once upon a time, there lived a teacher in a little village school.

On the teacher's birthday each child gave her a little gift.

One child brought a purse for her and another gave her a bag

Celia was the most brightest child in the class but she was very poor.

She brought a pink flower and another gave her a bag.

The teacher went to her, took the flower and said "thank you, children".

"Listen to what I say, do your work neatly and help your classmates.

This is the best gift any child can give to a teacher".

- C. A capseller used to go to sell caps from village to village. One day when he reached a garden, he was, very tired. So he put his load of caps under a tree, kept his head on it and lay down to rest. When he woke up after some time, he, found that some monkeys had taken away all his, caps. They had put the caps on their, heads. He did not know how to get them back. An idea flashed into his mind. He threw his own cap high in the air. The monkeys copied him. They threw their caps on the ground. The capseller collected the caps and went home.
- D. Once a fox who was hungry was roaming in search of food. and passed by a grape farm. He saw bunches of grapes hanging down and thought that they looked ripe and delicious. She jumped to pick them but found they were too high to her reach she tried again, jumping to pick another bunch, but still could not reach them. After several attempts, realizing that there was no branch within her reach, she muttered to herself, "Those grapes are all sour anyway", and walked away.

CHAPTER 22 : STORY WRITING

LEARNING WORKSHEET

1. One day, Sabuk, a youngman rode to the forest on his horse. By the side of a clear pool he saw a beautiful doe with a baby deer. He caught the baby deer as a nice pet for his son. He tied its legs and put it on his horse. Then he rode off. The poor doe ran after the horse. Sabuk looked at her and saw tears in mother's eyes. He untied the baby deer and put it down near its mother. At night an angel said in his sleep, "You were kind to the poor doe, so you will be king one day."
2. Every night, a jackal came to the cave to sleep.

One day, the lion could not find any food.

At sunset, the lion entered a cave.

He saw some footprints leading to the cave.

But there were no foot prints coming out.

The clever jackal greeted the cave to check. But got no answer.

He said, "If you are angry with me, I am going to another cave."

The jackal understood and ran off.

Some animal will come to sleep in this cave.

4. A monkey and a crocodile became great friends. The monkey gave sweet fruits to the crocodile daily. However the crocodile was foolish and greedy and thought to kill the monkey to eat its liver. One day, the crocodile requested the monkey to accompany him to his house on the other side of the river and offered to take him on his back. In the middle of the river, the crocodile told him of his desire. The clever monkey told him that its liver was kept on the tree. The crocodile took the monkey back to the tree, and the monkey quickly jumped on the tree. Thus, the crocodile was befooled.
